

AC | Interactive Media Management

Post graduate studies program

Overview

This One-year Graduate Certificate program prepares students to work as multimedia designers and producers. The knowledge and experience gained are now standard in a wide variety of fields.

Graduates may find employment in dynamic media development, web design, server-side development, photography, videography, motion graphics, project management, UX design, graphic design and layout, online education. Other opportunities involve start-up businesses and a wide variety of alternate professional fields.

Courses

Level-1

Web design

Graphic Design

Studio Lab

UX Design

Video
Composition

Web Development

Level-2

Database and Serverside
Development

Motion Graphic

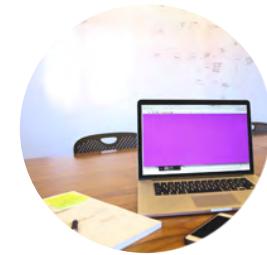

Studio Lab

Client Side
Development

Dynamic
Media

Client
Project

Faculty

Amel Dedic, Professor

Amel is a part time professor and freelance web developer/designer. He has been teaching web scripting at Algonquin since Winter 2014. Amel graduated in 2009 from the Algonquin College with diploma in Interactive Multimedia (today Interactive Media Management). From 2009 to 2014, he worked in the industry as a front-end developer. Amel also graduated from the University of Ljubljana (Slovenia) in 1997 with degree in industrial engineering.

Samar Elamir, Professor

Samar Elamir holds a bachelor of Arts in English literature from the University of Alexandria, Egypt, and a Master of Science in Information Technology from the University of Nottingham, UK. She graduated the Interactive Media Management program at Algonquin College with honours in 2015. After 5 years as a Motion Graphics Designer at Biblioteca Alexandrina, Egypt, she is now a professor of Graphic Technologies at Algonquin College. She is also a UX/UI testing coordinator at Service Canada.

Darin Faber Program Coordinator, Professor

Darin has been teaching for over 16 years, including 7 years at Algonquin College, and is a graduate of the Interactive Multimedia, Interactive Multimedia Developer, and TALL (teaching certificate) programs. He has a passion for teaching and sharing ideas with students. His background includes a wide variety of disciplines, including graphic design and layout, web publishing, CD/DVD development, photography, audio and video editing, programming, and project management.

Rob Kingsbury, Professor

With over twenty years experience in the industry, Rob Kingsbury brings a wide range of knowledge and experiences to the program. He has worked for clients across a diverse range of sectors, from startups to fortune 500 companies. Rob's goal as an educator is to make web design accessible and fun to learn so that his students can also become passionate about building amazing websites. Rob is a past graduate of the Interactive Media Management program.

Testimonials

ALGONQUIN | Interactive Media
COLLEGE Management

